

CASTLES IN THE GLADES

By Marjorie B. Wallace.

Laymen and Gentlemen: We have with us today one who needs no introduction. He will speak to anybody anywhere without that formality. (Laughter and applause.) Known to you all as a man of probity, he has been doing some probing this week and will report on his work at this time (Applause.) Since I have been for months intimately acquainted with the man, I will tell you that he is a man of great and glorious project and equal and glorious execution. (Prolonged applause.) I am sure that he will be able to do the same for his wives. (Muttering among the men.) Laymen and Gentlemen, it is with particular pleasure that I introduce to you—MISTER Marjorie B. Wallace. (Loud applause.)

(The speaker takes a bow, looks at the men and then back at the women.) Secretary of the Navy Swanson at the time he was governor of Virginia noted from the position given him by a Dutch master of ceremonies as follows: "Shenandoah will not be a man of long speech as he does 'sders here for that purpose.'"

So he goes. First stop was at the office in Cleveland, where Olive Laurence and Dorothy Sather gave him a cordial welcome—and that was absolutely all. It was informed that they were paid for what they didn't tell the amateur reporters and not for what they did tell. They are apparently used to a straight and narrow path, for Capt. Carter tells me that when they came out to the Gulfport they walked the plume like deckhands. (Aside by chairman: Humph! That doesn't spell anything—so do it.)

Next stop, Mrs. Moore's. I got along pretty well there—the dog didn't try to bite me this time. Mrs. Moore said that the only yardage she was bothering about was Dorothy's new hair cut. She said her grass, I didn't have time, so I plucked it and left.

Dashed over to Mrs. Flannikins, who reported her work progress. She said she had installed a new few teeth in the lady's cutter and are getting more solids and less trash.

Next, Mrs. McCarter, who expended her old burner about two months ago. She said she was fine now, she says she is stacking up fine now.

Mrs. Balnes, whose three-and-a-half-year-old son has ceased to run away. Perhaps she can use the old newspapers now to line the pantry shelves, etc., instead of to fan the young traveler home.

The government houses are under construction. They are being built in the rows and rows, which how many rows. Water heating will be installed, so will be the ability of the water to get into. (What was it the fox said about those trousers?)

Mrs. Lawler has gone north. Mrs. Pafford and Mrs. Southern will soon start north—and I don't know how many more. I wouldn't go so far as to say that there are many engineers in Cleveland, but there are certainly several with

MAJOR FRACTURES IN STATE ROAD CRASH

Pahokee Resident Taken To Miami For Treatment

Dennis Flynn, elderly resident of Pahokee, was seriously injured Wednesday in an automobile accident on state road 25 in Palm Beach County. Mr. Flynn was taken to a West Palm Beach hospital shortly after the accident in a Miami-Simon ambulance and removed to Miami Wednesday night or Thursday morning according to reports available here. A broken shoulder and several fractures of the pelvis were among injuries sustained by the Everglades farmer, whose condition was said to be serious.

It was stated that Mr. Flynn was injured in a collision between a 1934 Buick sedan and a 1936 Buick sedan. It was not known at this time if the driver of the Buick sedan was injured.

Mr. Flynn is said to be residing in Pahokee for many years.

New Glades Berry Crop Gives Large Yield Of Improved Huckleberry

Producing a heavy yield of large berries, a variety of garden huckleberry grown this summer by Neil Jensen, Pahokee farmer, gives promise of a new home garden crop for Everglades residents and may prove of value as a commercial crop. Mr. Jensen has about 140 bushes, some of which were planted in April and they have been bearing for a month or more. The plants are spaced about the same as tomato plants and grow to a height of three feet. The berries are larger than wild huckleberries and are not as acid. Mr. Jensen said three small bushes would produce a half gallon of berries and that he had picked a gallon from four large bushes.

The new huckleberry has been offered through local grocery stores and the grower has earned a quantity for home use.

LAKE SHORE SUPPLY BOUGHT BY DANSON

Glades Seed Firm Control Goes To President Of Corporation

Securing controlling interest of the Lake Shore Supply Company, Inc., by purchase of stock from T. W. Knight and L. Knight, W. J. Danson has assumed management of the firm's supply business at Pahokee and its associate branches. The transaction was made last month and details of the deal were made public on Mr. Danson's board of directors.

Mr. Danson, president of the corporation since he entered the firm in January, 1929, has also been elected treasurer, assuming managerial duties previously performed by T. W. Knight, retiring secretary-treasurer.

The company, which operates warehouses at Pahokee, Sand Cut, Curlew and South Bay, stocked all its houses except the main house and office at Pahokee in May, the Pahokee warehouse remaining open all through the summer for retailing of feeds and other farm supplies. The other branches will probably be opened the middle of next month. Mr. Danson told the board.

The Lake Shore Supply Company was started in March, 1927 by T. W. Knight and L. Knight, W. J. Danson with a warehouse at Canal Point. Mr. Danson retiring from the firm in 1929, Mr. Knight, brother-in-law of Mr. Knight, took over the management of the firm, following the erection of the present warehouse at Pahokee.

The Lake Shore Supply Company, Inc., is one of the largest firms in the area, supplying farmers' supplies. Mr. Danson stated that anything from a horse shoe to a tractor was stocked by the firm. The company specializes in western grain and beans and seed, limiting purchases of those seed to the area recognized as the foremost seed producing section. Mr. Danson said that the firm in opening for business this fall would carry its usual large line and extend its services and accommodations to farmers of the territory. "We will operate under the Government Rule," Mr. Danson declared, adding that his faith in the country was evidenced by his interest in the area.

Mr. Knight, former active member of the supply firm, who is taking a summer course at Stetson University in Deland, Fla., is now in law, this fall finishing his fourth summer course. His vacation was spent in the south, and on retirement from the firm, he will be studying law at Stetson University. L. Knight, father of T. W. Knight, was inactive as a member of the firm, but was helping him in time to personal farming enterprises.

Reemployment Office Is Moved To Pahokee

The National Reemployment Office, which was located at Glades, has been moved to Pahokee and is located in the McGuffey building in the post office building. Emerson Davis, in charge of the office, spent part of the week in the United States and returned on Monday during which time Mrs. Edie Walker took care of local business details.

CANAL CREWS ON REPAIRS OF ROAD

To Rebuild State Road Between Chancy Bay And Canal Point

USE FERA WORKERS

Repair of bridges and resurfacing of state road No. 194 between Chancy Bay and Canal Point, to connect with new work, on the route north to Okeechobee, is expected to be started within the next few days. The work on the Canal Point district by state road department engineers.

Work on the south end of the 30-mile stretch of road between Canal Point and Okeechobee is scheduled under an emergency appropriation for repair of the state road.

The work, which is expected to start the northern portion of the road North bound traffic is detoured to the south end of the road at Upstegrove Beach, north of Chancy Bay.

Right of way crews have started the work on the road grade south of the bay and the call for 50 workmen from Palm Beach county will be made as soon as they are needed for road construction. "I'll Run," Child Says Next Time She Sees Any Kind Of A Gun

Elaine, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Baker of Canal Point, has learned a lesson that it will not be necessary to repeat, she declares in discussing how she shot herself in the hand with her father's revolver Monday afternoon.

The little girl, anxious to investigate the place in the bedroom and after handling the gun awhile, pulled the trigger. Besides frightening the family and herself, the child suffered a wound in her left hand, the bullet penetrating the fleshy part of the hand between the thumb and the palm. Her stomach was hit and she was bleeding from the wound.

Fire Hodges Are Rewarded By State

Interpretation and release of weather information for the Everglades district, during the summer, will be given through two agencies, according to plans worked out by the state and the U. S. South Florida Red Cross Society. The state weather bureau at Miami and the central committee of the Everglades district, West Palm Beach, will receive available weather information and will make authoritative reports as often as conditions require, it was stated.

The committee at West Palm Beach is composed of W. T. Wallis, chairman of the safety league, George W. Carr and Mr. Merrill of the Merchants & Miners steamship line, who will have access to the latest and most accurate radio set for receipt of storm information from a number of stations and island sources. The committee will have the cooperation of the Pan-American Airways, American Telephone & Telegraph Company, Florida Power & Light Company, steamship lines and other agencies in the area.

Martin County Sheriff Potrocks Glades Guzzlers From Rotten Shine—Seizes Twenty First Still

Determined to put an end to moonshining operations in Martin county, Sheriff C. E. Christensen, of Hancock, Fla., seized 21 stills Saturday, capturing a one-barrel capacity still west of Palm City.

The sheriff, who says the majority of the illegal alcohol is manufactured in the western end of Martin county is for consumption by the majority of the population, is waging war on moonshiners not alone because of law infraction, but principally because of the poisonous quality of the product.

"I would not drink a glassful of moonshine," Sheriff Christensen declared, "for $1,000." He declared, "Most of it is matured by addition of potash. Some of the mash is allowed to ferment in holes hastily dug in the ground and it is not unusual to find cockroaches and rats in the fermented mash."

The Martin county sheriff and his deputies have seized stills at Chancy Bay section, some of large capacity. The still captured Saturday was one of the smallest he has confiscated.

FARM METHODS ARE CHANGING IN GLADES AREA

Effects Of Large Operations Will Be Noted During Season

ENLARGE ACREAGE

Trend Toward Self-Marketing By Individual Farmers

Monetary changes in production and marketing of Everglades vegetables in the 1934-35 cropping season are apparent in pre-season rentals and consolidation of large acreages in the western part of Palm Beach county. Transfer of production and marketing from individual farmers and share croppers to large operators is indicated by the trend toward consolidation of acreage into 100-acre units, which was formerly cultivated by small farmers, to a dozen or more individuals and combines.

Acreages of between 500 and 1000 acres and more will be farmed the coming season by 15 or 20 farmers in the area between Pahokee and South Bay, including several thousand acres in the Belle Glade district. Whole sections representing 600 acres will be farmed by several individual farmers and many others will cultivate between a half to a whole section.

Brokers and commission men, many of whom formerly controlled the marketing of farmers' crops through loans and advances, are entering the production end of the vegetable deal, as well as "dirt farmers" who in some cases have doubled and tripled their former acreages.

The operators who will control large blocks of land in the territory south of Pahokee, in P. D. Cate of Pahokee, who is said to have rented several sections including section 5 at Cardwell and section 9 at Upstegrove, and a small township part of section 5 was farmed last year by A. H. Hamrick, a resident of H. H. Hamrick Farm No. 2 north of Belle Glade and continue until all of the farm's acreage has been put in shape for planting. Farm Manager Green said this week that a "30" tractor, pulling two plows and a harrow, turning activities and another plow would be added soon.

Amount acreage to be cultivated on the state farm this fall has not been determined but is said to be about 1000 acres. The leaders each have five or six acres and the plowing and planting of the crops will be done by the farm's production of foodstuffs and justly increased production.

The farm is expected to be a recent calling meeting of league directors, the action taken because of the present situation of the farm and a rearrangement of schedule would be decided. Individual farmers on the engineer's team are invited to seek berths on teams now playing.

Preparation for planting an acre of Bountiful beans and two acres of the regular Thurston black beans started this week by C. M. Green, agricultural supervisor of the state farm. The planting will be made on a plot near the highway north of the farm. The experiment is in mid-summer planting.

Several acres of grasses for hay and a large plot of clover and alfalfa will also be planted. The varieties used are:

WORLD'S BIGGEST GAMBLER

Here's the world's biggest gambler, the American farmer! He gambles with the weather, with army worms, with grubs, and a score of other offshoots of the plague of ancient Egypt. If he wins, as he does occasionally, he comes off with a big stake; if he loses, which he does more frequently, he has a chance to try again. Happily, he is a good loser, and the world would starve—Exchange.

FLORIDA CORN

Now you take corn from Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, and other states raise their corn crops. Further south, Tennessee and Georgia raise much corn, and a lot of it is shipped into Florida. The corn is raised in the same way as much corn and just as good corn. It is shipped down here to feed the cows and the chickens and hogs, when it could be produced here just as well or better.

This thought is suggested by some samples of corn which Mayor Armstrong of Arcadia brought to this office Tuesday. There are several fine ears of the finest corn in the world, and they grow in his back yard here in town. A small patch supplied the family with all the green corn they could use, and many for the neighbors, and he could have sold some of it, and he has enough left to feed the chickens until next season.

The mayor also realizes that chickens like a variety in their feed, so he shows three sample ears of good kaffir corn, which he also grew in his yard. One of the things which we people in this section of Florida did not raise more of their grain. It certainly would be cheaper than to pay freight on it for 500 or a thousand miles—Arcadia Arcadian.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay.

If you are worried about the future of this country, you may have the crazy idea that we reached the limit of progress and advancement, that there is no more to be gained and hard times ahead, take my advice and attend the 1924 Convention of Progress in Chicago.

If it doesn't restore your faith and give you a new vision of the future, then you're just plain hopeless. The remarkable progress we have made in the century, the progress which is so vividly and amazingly presented at this great exposition, will into insignificance when compared with the strides that will be made in the years to come.

Every man in the House of Magic will convince the most skeptical that in electrical science we have only scratched the surface. Knowledge already possessed by man awaits only development to create great new industries that will give employment to countless numbers and bring greater comfort and happiness to all mankind.

Recent discoveries in the field of chemistry give equal promise of new fields for labor and industry. Old ideas and old methods will be scrapped and the advances will improve the condition and welfare of all classes.

The startling thought that comes to one viewing the exposition is that most of the material things in the world today are obsolete. We are on the threshold of a new era. Our great transportation systems are out of date. They must be scrapped and replaced and the change is already under way.

Millions of homes throughout the nation are antiquated. We will tear them down and build a new and better type of abode. Air conditioning equipment, now costly for the system, some will be perfected and in a few years made available at a price that will permit every modest bungalow to enjoy the comfort it provides.

Two outstanding achievements of the past century were the automobile and radio. Think what these two great industries have done for us, the millions they have given employment to, the comfort, pleasure and happiness they have brought to mankind.

Every indication points to rapid progress in the field of aviation. New type ships and added safety will encourage its growth. We will be making flying increasingly popular, which in turn will result in thousands of new airports and landing fields.

No, America isn't all done. She's just starting. The future is bright, not dark. We are moving forward, not backward. Courage and faith will win our progress.

Millions of Americans should see it. No matter what sacrifices you may have to make in order to take the trip they will prove justified. Don't miss it.

CASTLES IN THE GLADES

No visible means of restraint. Maybe it better do the intervening myself for this column for the present. (The chairman looks up with a dangerous glint in his eye and the speaker hurries on.)

A card from Fernie Planners says that she and Freddie are having a fine time in Chicago, and that they didn't have even a flat on the way up. I'm too flat to get further than West Palm Beach. Harry Brown is another town dweller, his family lives in Lakeland. He spends his spare time making wood carvings, and believe it or not, they are good. He has replicated a Dodge car at full speed in the water which is very natural. He also made a beautiful bird, a meadow, a cat, etc.

Mrs. Poole was good smartening up all the green corn they could use, and many for the neighbors, and he could have sold some of it, and he has enough left to feed the chickens until next season.

Each of the exhibitors, called on Edna Blakey and her bridegroom. Edna says she likes living in the city, and she has put Bill to work in charge of right of way and clearing around their new home.

Mrs. Dean is cut on the job again plus one ten pound baby. And that's progress. Next, Mrs. Rich says that apart from the old business her work consists of making soup. As Homes has had a bad tush yanked.

Next, Mrs. Boyd is fixing up a new house and had no time for amateur reporters. Next, Mrs. Wardwell, known to the trade as Tish, has no progress to report here, as she has just come back from Chicago. (Well, Cuba's about, isn't it?) Mrs. and Mr. Wardwell show out and back. They claim that they were neither hot nor hot while in Havana. I wouldn't tell you a story like this.

And that's all the gals I saw. And I don't believe half the things that I've heard. I'll try again next year, and leave the mission at home next time. Interruption from the chairman. Just you try it. (Answer from the speaker of the day. What you mean, interruption?)

Recipe for today: Two Coca Cola bottles. Knock the head out of one. Fill the other with Coca Cola. Add 120 pounds of sugar. Skim for several days until pines clear. Transfer to glass bottle. Trace work with glass tube in center in bang carry small rubber hose from tube to glass water. When it stops bubbling, stop up bang. Continue bubbling to make sure it isn't over 32 percent potency. I guess we're all tired. Let's quit.

Farmers' Week At The World's Fair Set For August 11 Through 18

GAINEVILLE, Fla.,—Farmers' Week at the World's Fair in Chicago has been set for the week of August 11 to 18. Dr. Wilmon Norcia, dean of the College of Agriculture, has been advised.

During the seven-day period, particular emphasis will be placed on all educational exhibits of special interest to the farmer. All exhibitors at the Century of Progress exposition will be urged to make a special trip to the fair.

Agriculture's greatest industry, agriculture, and in doing honor to the farmer who produces the food that sustains the people who live on the farm. Educational tours will be open to farm people throughout the week.

The Home and That Boy of Yours

By F. H. CHERRY

CAN IT BE DONE?

IN LIGHT of what must be done to make a modern home function properly and fairly for a boy, is such a home possible for the average parent? That is a fair and honest question and the answer is most certainly "yes," if we understand that the error of a hundred generations cannot be corrected in one and that one can.

While it will be quite impossible for one of us to instantly change ourselves into thoroughly modern and efficiently trained parents or to immediately and without delay set every detail of our homes in order in keeping with the new ideal and the new knowledge (for that would be lifting ourselves by our boot straps) at the same time let it be said emphatically that there is a great hope and already marvelous progress in the right direction.

However, the chance will, out of necessity, be a process, not an act. We cannot will to become better, more modern parents and present, but in a good deal, but we can will to start a new regime now. We can decide to begin at least a head start of the whole problem and our relation to it. We can begin to realize that the fact each other's methods cannot be destructive; to give each other's methods a fair trial; to read about one boy's life after another; hear voices speaking from the pages of books; attend child guidance clinics. There is help everywhere.

Scientists say that at least 10,000 earthquakes occur in the world yearly. The two youngest signs of the Storm Plans Completed By "Safety Committee"

Plans for the evacuation of the Everglades for the purpose of protecting the objects of the National Historic Landmark which will make for better information as to the necessary evacuation of the Everglades during storm periods is one of the objects of the Safety Committee which will endeavor to coordinate its activities in an orderly and efficient manner. Economic loss to residents through unplanned evacuation is hoped to be reduced through functioning of the committee and the several cooperating agencies.

A coordinating committee composed of Fred C. Elliot, chief engineer of the I. I. Fund, Dr. Henry Hanson of the State Board of Health, General Collins of the National Guard and others, will be organized by the Safety Committee to assist in details of evacuation and concentration camps if necessary.

The meeting Thursday was held in the American Legion hall at Belle Glade with W. T. Walling, chairman, presiding. Henry Baker, assistant director of disaster relief, was in charge. Red Cross delegates to the meeting, the Safety Committee, each community and the several cooperating agencies, the Red Cross treasury is in a depleted condition and cannot undertake a program of rehabilitation as extensive as has been practiced in the past, he said.

More than half of the work has been done on the enthusiasm of the people, he said. The work that has been done by various groups has been in preparing and organizing to evacuate the people and to rehabilitate in the Everglades.

Mr. Baker explained that permission given by the Red Cross to the Washington office, was to be in the form of a grant, not a loan, and that the Red Cross, also spoke of many others in discussion of the work.

Between 50 and 60 persons attended the session which lasted from 10 o'clock in the morning to 3 p. m., with an hour out for lunch. Representatives from all communities and counties bordering on the lake, were said to be in attendance as well as cooperating agencies outside the territory.
